

The Divided States of Subservia

Leo Jefferson lives in a world where everyone has supernatural abilities but only a handful of people know it. The food and water are drugged. Mobile phones, TVs, and computers transmit a debilitating signal. False information/doublethink is streamed into everyone's minds, blinding them to their enslavement. In Leo's world, unwitting slaves outnumber him seven-billion to, well, him. This world is called Earth. Here. Now. Absurd? Convincing people otherwise and freeing the power inside them is Leo's plight. In order to do that, he has to kill the fifty-seven descendants of the signers of the Declaration of Independence who control everything. And one is his twin brother. If Leo succeeds, a new world is born. If he fails, his brother has already cleared wall-space for displaying Leo's head. So begins the Evolution Revolution.
