

Frazzled

Upon moving to a sleepy little town in the San Bernardino, California mountains, neuroscientist, Dr. Richard Morgan, stumbles across a mysterious, debilitating disease. Everyone in town is exposed, yet only the most prominent succumb to its insanity. How is it that only a specific type of person is affected by the weird sounds emanating from the old inventors shop? And why is it that a tape recording of that noise is capable of creating brain damage in certain laboratory animals? The answer lies hidden in the fact that vulnerability appears to be measured in terms of social status. Research turns to chaos and murder when the dark force of one of the nations leading governmental agencies attempts to possess the ability to dispense the lethal disease...unaware that a nameless organization is also intent on utilizing the destructive nature of this auditory virus-to rid the government of power-crazed maniacs.
